16 Day-15 Night Cruise/Tour

Join us as we experience an engineering marvel! The Panama Canal should be on everyone's list of must-see places. It'll surely be the highlight of this 16 day cruise/tour that includes five other countries as you cruise from Los Angeles and into Miami. Experience the thrill of your ship being raised and lowered 85 feet by man-made locks as you marvel at the enormity of this stunning feat of engineering. Today, it takes 8-10 hours to transit the canal passing through steel lock gates that are 6 feet thick and 60 feet tall. The original 40 pairs of gates, built in Pennsylvania, are still in use after more than 100 years. This engineering marvel is truly one that will be fascinating for everyone to experience!

Construction on the 48 mile canal that connects the Atlantic and Pacific began in 1881 and was completed 33 years later in 1914. After several unsuccessful attempts by the French, US engineers took control of building the canal and the US retained ownership until 1999 when Panama assumed full control. Named as one of the seven wonders of the modern world, nearly 15,000 ships per year travel through the canal. What once were the tops of lush hills now make up the many rainforest covered islands dotting the lake. Pass through a series of locks that are flooded and emptied to raise and lower the Star as it makes its way from through the Canal. Towing locomotives operating on cog tracks keep the ship centered within the lock chamber and watching the process is truly amazing.
